The Wizard in the Land of Odds asked me to write about a polymer clay artist. I whined and said that I did not like any of the polymer clay artists that he had chosen. To tell you the truth I truly was not a fan of polymer clay. The idea of taking poly vinyl chloride and making something beautiful out of it was beyond my comprehension. Then one day quite by accident, I dropped onto the

DOES THE INTERNET AFFECT CREATIVE THOUGHT

Has the flow of information on the Internet affected how we think creatively? I recently finished reading a compilation of scientific studies on this subject. Some scientists say No, and others say Yes, without any definitive coalescing of ideas on this subject. But the subject is intriguing, nonetheless. As a Jewelry Designer, do we think through our projects and our artistic lives differently today, than say, we would have 20 years ago before the Internet? Has the Internet changed your way of thinking as a Jewelry Designer?

THE NADLER COLLECTION

If you find yourself in New York City, you might want to visit The Museum of Arts and Design. Daniel and Serga Nadler made a promised gift of their renowned jewelry collection to the Museum. This unparalleled collection encompasses approximately 800 modern and contemporary works in silver from around the world.

SUSTAINABLE JEWELRY

I saw a recent picture of a 100 x 100 foot tract of Amazon rain forest surrounded by 100's of acres of soybean fields. The soybean fields covered what was supposed to be protected rain forest by the Brazilian government. Great job. Here's to our continued abilities to breathe at you. In any case, I thought I'd see what popped up on a Google search for sustainable jewelry.

THE MORE THE COMMUNITY SUPPORTS CRAFTS...

In most places across America, you will find a lot of crafts. But also in most places, the quality of these crafts leaves much to be desired. Often what you see are repetitions of things done elsewhere, little innovation, little risk-taking in artistic expression, poor to weak techniques, and little use of newer technologies. Crafts aren't created in a vacuum. They are created in social settings. They require nurturing. They require support. They require a sense of expectations and where the "bar" is, and where the "bar" can be set.

FUNK PRAIRIE HOME and GEM & MINERAL MUSEUM

I've visited this hidden gem twice, and the next time I plan a trip to Funk's Grove, it will be for more than one day, so I can again thoroughly enjoy every bit of this extraordinary place.

FINDING A JOB THAT UTILIZES YOUR BEAD EXPERIENCE

Times are tough — particular for craft artists — as opportunities to teach or sell their crafts diminish with the recession, and are slow to come back with an economic recovery....In this environment, while there may be shortages of more obvious jobs — like instructor or jewelry artist/apprentice, this are still many job and career opportunities for you.

DO YOU KNOW WHERE ALL YOUR BEADING NEEDLES ARE?

Cleo is a cat owned by one of our customers. She has a propensity, or is it proclivity, or is it pronounced desire for, or something which attracts her to beading needles. It turns out that cats especially are attracted to things like beading needles....And they swallow them.

SUDAN - LOST ARTS?

Before the ethnic, religious and racial wars, and before the damming of the Nile by Egypt, there were many ethnic groups in the Sudan. The culture and society of these ethnic groups evolved as a very tight ecology. This ecology was based on the trading of cows and women and food and goods — and the weather.

WHEN IN DOUBT - DUNG

People can always create fascinating jewelry from unusual materials.

LADYBUG JEWELRY

I was just finishing a review of some new ladybug themed jewelry by Cartier, and was somewhat bored and disappointed. Too often these big jewelry houses play it safe — a few elements of high style and blah.

UPSTAIRS, DOWNSTAIRS AT THE BEAD STORE

One of the first times I noticed that some people were treated differently than others had to do with Miss Divinity Daughtry – an heiress. I was in elementary school at the time. Miss Daughtry had an estate across the Raritan River from my Dad's pharmacy. She had been in our store a couple of times, but mostly she stayed on the estate. She had just killed – that is, allegedly, just killed – another boy friend. ...

Jewelry Spotter

Hello, if you don't already know by now, as millions surely already do, my name is Marjorie.

People know me as a bead jewelry designer with an obsessive penchant for gemstones, pearls, more gemstones, more pearls, even more gemstones and even more pearls, and, of course, all the other stuff, like chain, wire, sterling silver, and you know what else, I don't have to tell you.

TIPS & TRICKS

Occasional insights into beading, jewelry making, and business...

High Strung

Intuitive. Inspired by Nature and the world around me. Translating feelings and senses and vague images into beautiful jewelry, wonderful beadwork, exciting wearable pieces of art. Beyond following step by step. We're on the edge and we're high strung about it.

Beads On The Bone

I'm a store dog, from a long line of store dogs. My name is Lily. I'm part Chihuahua and part Shiatsu. Other store dogs have it so much easier than I do, because I work in a Bead Shop. I've got obstacles and responsibilities.

HOW TO BEAD A ROGUE ELEPHANT

I don't mean to drag a poor Elephant by its tail, kicking and screaming, into our bead world against its wishes. Nor do I perceive the elephant to be a threat, like you might see an Elephant in the boudoir, or the fine china store. But a Rogue Elephant in the middle of our craft room forces upon us a completely different logic, so that we can make sense of it all.

- Weekly Bead Study - Right Angle Weave Variations

You can follow our bi-weekly discussion notes on-line on our blog:

blog.landofodds.com/class-notes/bead-study/

Right Angle Weave is a challenging stitch for many people, because it's rhythm often seems foreign. It's a very loose stitch which takes a lot of effort and reinforcement for tightening up. A lot of thread shows. You can work this in 2-D or 3-D patterns. It's an easy stitch from which to jump off of, using other beading stitches, such as peyote stitch.

In our studies, we'll begin with the basics, and learn increasingly more difficult variations of the stitch, as we proceed through the projects in this magazine. We'll do some experimentation, trying different kinds of stringing materials, different shapes of beads, and different configurations for the RAW square. We'll talk about strategies for Visualizing the RAW.

Then we'll look at one of Cynthia Rutledge's adaptations of RAW which creates a very beautiful, soft netting pattern.

Finally, we'll examine the Russian Bead Weaving book to see if we can duplicate any of the RAW weave projects in there, particular the spiral RAW tube necklaces

We'll be using a Bead & Button special issue as our main study guide. You can purchase this online at:

START Your Education WITH OUR [ORIENTATION TO BEADS
& JEWELRY FINDINGS](#)

Over the years, I've found that people who bead and make jewelry have not necessarily learned how to make the best choices, when it comes to decide what beads, clasps, other findings, and stringing materials to include, and what Not to include, in a piece. People do not understand quality issues. They are often uninformed about workable materials and strategies to make their pieces more durable, more drape-able, and better able to move with the person as the jewelry is worn.

At The Center for Beadwork & Jewelry Arts and Land of Odds, we developed a curriculum that took a design approach concerned with teaching people how to make these kinds of choices. Everyone in our curriculum begins with this Orientation to Beads and Jewelry Findings class. We offer this opportunity for you, as well.

BEAD WEAVING

STITCH OF THE MONTH
Learn a new bracelet stitch each month!
Instructor: Kathleen Lynam

Meets one Sat morning each month, usually the first Saturday.

The Stitch of the Month curriculum is designed to teach 12 major bead-weaving stitches/techniques in a comparative context. This is perhaps one of the best ways to learn bead weaving. You get a clearer understanding of what each stitch is, how to manage and control it, and what your project and design options are, when you learn them comparatively, rather than in isolation from each other.

Each class is devoted to explaining a little of the history of the stitch and the how-to basics of doing the stitch. Students then practice with variations on the stitch, such as increasing/decreasing, flat vs. tubular vs. circular, and the like.

Students create a bracelet each month.

Students may join the class at any point in the 12-month cycle. Each class is really in-and-of-itself. You may do all of the classes, or only some of them, as you desire. If you miss a class, it will be repeated in the next cycle.

The Twelve Sessions (June begins cycle; doesn't matter where you start; each class is in and of itself)
